Sheriff's Deputies Locate Missing Endangered Woman

Town of Clay, New York – The Onondaga County Sheriff's Office reports that sheriff's deputies have located the missing endangered woman who was reported missing Tuesday evening.

Deputies investigating the disappearance of 28-year-old Heather Olivia, developed information overnight that led them to the State of Ohio. Deputies contacted authorities in Braceville Township, Ohio, where Olivia was safely located and transported to a medical facility.

Olivia had been reported missing to sheriff's deputies Tuesday night by her family after leaving her Gaskin Road residence in a 2004 Honda Accord bearing New York State registration GKK-3922. Her family was concerned for her emotional and physical welfare.
